Mrs. Green is going to cook a big seafood dinner. It's Mr. Green's birthday today, and five of his friends are coming to his birthday party. So, she asks her only child, Ken, to buy some fresh fish at the shop.

Now, Ken is at the shop and looking for fresh fish. There are many kinds of seafood at the shop, but they don't look very fresh.

Ken picks up a fish and puts it close to his nose. Then, he puts the fish back and picks up another to put it close to his nose again. Seeing this, the shopkeeper is furious and stops Ken.

"Stop, kid. What are you doing?" the shopkeeper shouts.

"I'm talking with the fish," says Ken.

"Then what are you and the fish talking about?" asks the shopkeeper, still very angry.

"I asked them the news in the sea," says Ken.

"What did they say?" asks the man.

"They said they don't know because they left there a long time ago," says Ken.
