(34.~35.)

Lantern Festival is one of the most important days to celebrate Chinese New Year. Chinese New Year holidays begin with the rite of "Sending off the Kitchen God to Heaven" and end with the Lantern Festival. Chinese people celebrate Chinese New Year according to the lunar calendar from the last day of the year to January 15th of the next year.

On January 1st, people will be with their family. The next day, married daughters come back home to be with their parents. From January 3rd, people will visit other relatives and friends. January 5th is the beginning of working days, including farming and business work. Lantern Festival falls on January 15th. It is a time for all the people of society. Strangers or old friends celebrate together with you as a sign of union.

Lantern Festival and its celebrating activities are both important in Chinese culture. The 2017 Yunlin Lantern Festival puts ancient and modern activities together and shows the union of ancient and modern lives.
